Backhoe digging test pit on Summer st. site selected for new junior high school.

Service Out For Two Hours

The Arlington police station was without telephone service Tuesday from 10:31 a.m. to 12:25 p.m.

Chief Lucarelli told this paper that he wished to explain this fact to local residents in case anyone was unable to reach the station by phone by dialing during that period.

An officer was stationed at the telephone building on Pleasant st. with a portable radio just in case anyone who could not contact the station by dialing, checked with the telephone operators to find out why.

The Chief suggested that if such an outage should take place in the future that those dialing check with the operator to find out why the station could not be contacted.

Strangely enough one call did get through to the station through a local line to the station and this call was for an ambulance emergency. No one seems to know how the call got through, according to Chief Lucarelli.

A Summer st. site adjacent to the proposed MDC hockey rink has been selected for a new junior high school. At a recent meeting, the Junior High School Building Committee unanimously voted to insert an article in the Town Warrant to acquire this land for a school building.

Last week, site investigation began with borings and test pits being made. The photograph shows the backhoe in the process of digging a test pit to determine the nature of the land.

A comprehensive site survey of the entire town was made by the architectural firm of Davies and Wolf. The decision to select this particular site was based on the fact that the surrounding area has the greatest density and the largest growth in school population.

The land is town-owned and thus would entail no costs for acquisition. The adjacent recreation areas could be used for physical education without interfering with already established programs.

The site had been approved by the Mass. School Building Assistance Commission in April 1966 when the School Survey Committee made its study for a suitable location for a junior high school. Finally it is the only available and unused tract of land large enough for a school of the proposed size.

The site consists of 5.6 acres, sufficient for a multi-level school building with off street parking. It is bounded on the North by Summer st.

Lounge Request Cut From Budget

A request for the construction of a student lounge at Arlington High school was cut from the school budget by the Arlington School Committee Monday night.

The cost to construct such a lounge would be $6,500. High school students had previously appeared before the School Committee in connection with the construction of such a lounge.

The request had called for the construction of a lounge in the so-called "Old Hall" in the "A" Building of the Arlington High complex.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Bert Roens told Committee members, "We have a moral commitment to the students."

He strongly urged that the item be left in the budget. Committeewoman Claire O'Neil stated that she couldn't see how both juniors and seniors would be able to use such a lounge, because of lack of space. She suggested a lounge for seniors only.

School Committeewoman Doris Cremens added that she was not opposed to the lounge but she didn't feel that the item could be left in when others are needed more.

Committeeman Carl Allen requested that the item be taken from the budget and a special article inserted.

This suggestion was not approved.

Dr. Carter called the lounge request a luxury item.

A voice vote and then a hand vote was taken putting the item from the budget.

School Board Slashes $157,000 From Budget

The Arlington School Committee at a special budget meeting Monday night voted to slash some $157,247 from the 1969 school budget.

The items cut were included under two budget categories—one being operation and maintenance of plant and the second being fixed assets, improvement of buildings, acquisition of equipment and equipment replacement.

The audio-visual aid program item was cut in half—a $13,163 cutback.

A request for a surface grinder machine for the high school shop, $5,700 was cut out.

A student lounge item at the high school, $6,500 was also cut out.

An item for replacement of typewriters, $2,400 was also taken from the budget as was one for the purchase of 13 electric typewriters, $6,000.

Out of Sight
Several items for resurfacing or hot-topping playgrounds, drives or parking lots at several schools were also taken from the budget.

Many of these items have been requested for five or ten years.

Several items requesting drapes at several schools in the community were also cut from the budget.

The total amount cut back under the operation of plant items was $22,930, the rest was taken from the budget relative to fixed assets, etc.

The Finance sub-committee on schools previously had sent a letter to the School Committee explaining that it would be the policy of the Finance Committee to hold the line on budgets for 1969.

keeping them in line with the 1968 budgets. Chairman of the sub-committee Bernard Forest also explained the policy at the Monday meeting.

When asked if this meant all town budgets, he answered "yes."

"The prospects for the tax rate this year are going out of sight," Forest told those present.

A surprisingly small turnout was present for the special meeting with not more than a dozen interested residents in attendance.

The full School Committee and the sub-committee of the Finance Committee will meet Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. to finalize the budget for Town Meeting.

Concerned Over Bus Service

Selectmen at the meeting of Dec. 30, voted to send a letter to the MBTA relative to the matter of commuters standing waiting for buses at Park Circle in Arlington Heights.

The matter was brought to the attention of the members of the Board by Selectman Joseph P. Greeley.

The letter to John Fennell Supt. of Surface Lines of the MBTA, read as follows:

"At a meeting of the Board of Selectmen held Monday, Dec. 30, 1968, Selectman Greeley stated that on the morning of Dec. 23, 1968, the buses lay idle on standby at Park Circle while about 60 people, waiting to go to Harvard Sq. stood around in the cold waiting for a bus to start its run."

"He deplored the fact that these commuters were not given an opportunity to board these buses in accordance with an agreement made with the General Manager of the Authority earlier this year, and asked that you give this matter your special attention to see if conditions can be improved in this respect during the remaining winter months."

COLLINS CORNER

Well, Dec. 31, 1968 we start all over again, and, like race horses, we all become a year older before another season rolls by. And, like business, we sit down and quietly take a look at ourselves, check up on our inventories. Maybe some say, where have I been and where am I going. For most of us, it is where have I been and how much will I have to pay to Uncle Sam, and where is the wherewithall to pay him.

That, of course, is the year just past. But, as we ponder, we find there are some years that "kind of" stick out in one's mind as a particular one. So for the sake of looking back, let's take the year 1934. Of course, thousands will not remember it, but many more do. It was quite a 12 months. In many cases those who lived it will be glad it's just a memory.

The United States was in the middle of a depression, unemployment was high and money was scarce, and many students in college were forced to leave because their folks could not afford to support them. For those who were lucky enough to stay, the graduation day had very little to offer, and only a few students were being interviewed for positions in the business world.

Construction, for instance was at a standstill. Bricklayers, carpenters, plumbers, painters, electricians, and other tradesmen were applying for relief on the E.R.A. rolls, and glad of the chance to make $21.85 per week, for 30 hours work. This is a far cry to the rates today but the work they did was just as hard. Prices were a bit lower but, and even though the tax rate was low, hundreds of homes of inability to pay.

We, here in town, had over 1200 men and women on the relief rolls, with the dependents amounting to almost 5000 people, and it was very depressing to see many college men and women applying for work on those rolls so they could help out their families.

But, 35 years later, the sun has come out. And, for those who do not remember, it's good; but in many homes, the elders could sit down and recite quite a story that many not remembering might think was just a dream. But, believe it, my young friends, it was very real.

In Arlington, in 1934, they voted for the first time Civil Service for the Firemen. Later, all Town Employees not under the act became members of the service. The Police Dept. had been under it for years, but for "reasons" the Fire Fighters were kept out. That year, also, a rather paradoxical vote was taken in which the voters OK'd the right to have Sunday sports, but turned down Sunday movies.

And, that was also the year that the E.R.A. gave the town funds to chase pigeons away from the Old Town Hall. And, some genius felt that if you spread a sticky substance on the roof and gutters they would get so discouraged with dirty sticky feet they would fly away. Well, it worked quite well, but there were some protests from the NAFWSE, which broken down means the National Association for Pigeons with Sticky Feet, and so the project was discontinued. The Town received great publicity from this experiment, and papers and radios all over the country commented about it, and some of our top comedians used it in their routines.

So, if some of you folks are thinking of visiting the Boston Common, be sure to buy a bag of peanuts, and who knows you may be feeding some hungry old "native pigeon" from your old home town.

However, be thankful it's 1969, and not 1934, and with that pleasant thought have a Happy, and Healthy Year.

That Man About Town

A month ago, MAT was "thinkin'—a big wide-open election. How can things die out so quickly?

Although it still looks like this year's race will be much more lively than was the dull affair of a year ago, it does not look like the contest that was foreseen a month ago.

Who wants to run—one or two interested—and why should they be? During the past few years, Arlingtonians and others have just not cared about the next guy.

The motto has been: "Let George do it."
But what happens when George gets "sick and tired of doing it"?

Does Charlie do it—or Pete or Ed?
Unfortunately no one does

To the Editor:
The management and staff of the Park Avenue Nursing Home, through your newspaper, would like to thank the many organizations and individuals that helped make Christmas a more happy one for all of our elderly residents. In particular we are indebted to Mrs. David MacDonald and the Cub Scouts, Mrs. Eugene Brooks and the Parmenter School Camp Fire Girls, the Arlington Heights Baptist Church Choral Group, the First Baptist Church of Arlington Choral Group, the Congregational Church Junior Choir, St. James Church Girls Choir, the Arlington Boys' Club Caroling Group, Mrs. Ronald Kurth, and her Brownie Troop, and Morgan Memorial who always remembers our patients with gifts each Christmas. Also, our thanks to the many others not mentioned.

We especially appreciate their taking the time to stop by the Home with their carols, gifts, and goodies. Their kind remembrances and thoughtful visits contributed greatly to a more memorable Christmas for all.

Mr. Average Voter screams, hollers, and in general demands action" when the taxes are high.

But what does he do when asked to do something about these high taxes? He "screams, hollers and demands that someone else take the action" to do something about the taxes.

If Mr. "Average" would do something about the whole thing, then MAT wouldn't have to worry about "letting" George do it.

And talking about doing things, are those skate marks on the ice at Meadowbrook, they sure looked the part.

Dear Sirs:
I would like to express my profound thanks to both yourselves and the Arlington Jaycees.

I have been receiving the Arlington Advocate since I arrived in Vietnam and just recently I received a Christmas Package from the Jaycees.

It sure is a real morale booster especially at this time of year to know that so many people of Arlington are thinking about the hometown boys are over here.

Even guys that are from different states read the Advocate once, myself and the one other guy from Massachusetts (Dorchester) have read it and re-read it.

Again I thank you and the Town of Arlington for remembering their boys in Vietnam.

BADSON'S POINT OF VIEW

CONTAINERIZED FREIGHT SHIPMENTS

Wellesley Hills, Mass., January 9 — One of the thorny points of the stalemated labor negotiations with longshoremen is the handling of containerized freight. The dock workers view this rapidly growing mode of freight transport as a threat to the jobs available to longshoremen. This is true, to some extent; but the Babson view is that—as with most major innovations—containerization is the result of the unending spiral of labor costs and of the damage and pilferage losses which have made freight transportation so costly.

ADVANTAGES OF CONTAINERIZATION

Under the maritime industry's new freight shipment process, cargo flow is speeded. More important, pilferage danger and handling damage are lessened. Thus, greater efficiency is effected at all cargo transfer points. Shippers are able to operate at almost the efficiency of tankers with their uniform loads of bulk goods or liquids.

Conventional ships may require anywhere from five to seven days in port to discharge and receive cargo. Container-ships can disgorge and reload in about one day. Hence, not only can the freight be sent speedily along its way, but the container-ships can make more trips than conventional freighters.

A MUSHROOMING INDUSTRY

Containerized shipments of ocean freight had a humble beginning in 1956 when the first serious attempt was made by Malcolm McLean to adapt the trucking concept of handling freight to maritime shipping. He envisioned the economic advantages of combining the flexibility of truck freight forwarding (which assembles freight in less-than-truck-load lots) with the efficiencies of ships (which haul huge tonnages over long distances at extremely low cost per ton-mile).

Mr. McLean started with four old tankers and two hundred boxlike containers. Since then, many major shipping companies have revamped operations to include containerized shipping. The Sea-Land Services subsidiary of McLean Industries has already made investments of $350 million toward containerization, and by mid-1969 will add another $70 million. Matson Navigation Company, another early entry, plans to double its $80 million investment. Five other U. S. freight lines have committed or earmarked $160 million for this purpose. It is now estimated that within two years fifteen shipping companies will have investments in containers exceeding $1 billion.

HIGH STAKES

The foregoing figures indicate the costly nature of containerized freight shipping. Regular containers cost at least $2,000 each, and "reefers" (refrigerated containers) as much as $12,000. Moreover, the new specially designed and fitted container-ships under construction in American yards may cost as much as $23.5 million each . . . compared with about $10 million for conventional freighters.

Investments must also be made in terminal facilities. Each berthing space at a modern container terminal may require an outlay of some $4.5 million. Because of the vast economies of the transport, however, Babson's considers these initial investments money well spent.

WORLDWIDE MOVEMENT

The trend toward containerization is not confined to America. Six foreign shipping lines, representing four European nations are investing $200 million in the Atlantic Container Line, which began operations in the North Atlantic last fall. Nine British shipping lines invested $162 million to form two consortia, which in turn formed a super consortium to exploit the Australian trade. Japan's Ministry of Transport has forecast that by 1970 Japan will spend $300 million on containerization. Also, ports both here and abroad are frantically spending for new facilities to handle containerized freight.

Containerized shipping is laying the groundwork for a worldwide land-sea-air transport network. Containerized freight can move by sea, railroad, highway, and air, or by any combination thereof, in the course of a single voyage. Hence the Babson staff expects this infant industry to enjoy good growth as shippers become increasingly convinced of its merits.

Your PHARMACIST SPEAKS

Herold R. Partamian, B.S.
Registered Pharmacist

One of the greatest geniuses of the earliest medical pioneers was Galen, who practiced in Rome. He belonged to the school of medicine which believed firmly in dissection and experimentation. Many refused to listen to him when he said the cords in the heart were not nerves. When Galen challenged the theory of the brain as an organ to cool the heart, they almost threw him out of town. However, he did leave a huge legacy of medical information. He located the brain as the center of the nervous system, and even demonstrated how injury to a portion of it could result in paralysis.

Trains at WBZ Radio

What to do with a story when it comes off of the wire is explained to student reporter Dennis Beatrice by WBZ News Editor, Peggy Printz. Dennis, who lives at 17 Marion rd., is a senior at Arlington Catholic. He is one of 42 area high schoolers participating in the second annual WBZ Radio Student Reporter program.

Dennis Beatrice, who lives at 17 Marion rd., in Arlington is currently learning the basics of electronic journalism in the WBZ Radio News Department.

Dennis, a senior at Arlington Catholic is enrolled in the Second Annual WBZ Radio Student Reporter Program along with forty-two other area high schoolers.

Arlington's Student Reporter, under the guidance of WBZ Radio News Director Jack Plunze, will learn how to write news stories for radio. He will then apply this information to news stories which he will write about his school. The best of these stories will be broadcast on WBZ Radio, with the student reporter receiving by-line credit.

Later in the program, Dennis will have an opportunity to tape one of his own stories. The best of these stories, actually reported by the students will also be broadcast on the station.

Compete for Bonds

In addition to the learning aspects of the program, the Student Reporters will be competing for three United States Savings Bonds which will be awarded to the students who have written the best stories during the course of the year.

According to WBZ Radio General Manager Jim Lightfoot, "Students with writing ability who think about journalism careers, don't often think about radio or TV reporting. Our objective is to interest talented youngsters in the expanding career opportunities available in the electronic reporting field. If, through this program, we can interest one student in this direction, the program will be very worthwhile." Lightfoot concluded.

Dennis, in addition to his reporting activities, is a member of his school's Debating, Oratory and Glee Clubs. For extra curricular enjoyment, he works with his Parish Youth Group.

Leader Program In Full Swing

A new schooling program which will offer enlisted artillerymen the opportunity for speedy promotions and added responsibility is now in full swing at the U. S. Army Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Oklahoma, announced Sergeant Joe L. Smith, local Army recruiter.

Called the Artillery Combat Leader Program, the schooling features training in six artillery-related fields. The formal schools are then followed by on-the-job training under the supervision of veteran officers and NCO's.

The six courses include: Field Artillery Radar Operations, Field Artillery Operations and Intelligence, Ballistic Meteorology, Tactical Communications, Illumination and the Field Artillery Non-commissioned Officers Course.

The nucleus of the program is the Field Artillery Non-commissioned Officer Candidate Course which offers potential gunners or section chiefs 12 weeks of academic study and 10 weeks of on-the-job training. Soldiers attending the course enter as corporals and graduate as sergeants. A select few are promoted to staff sergeant upon completion of the training cycle.

Promotional opportunities and length of academic study vary with the course.

Information on this and other Army opportunities is available from Sergeant Joe L. Smith, local Army recruiter, whose office is located at Post Office Building, Union Sq., Somerville.

He was graduated from Mattignon High school, where he was a member of the original Debating Society for three years and also was a graduate of Boston College, Class of 1968.

New Curriculum

A bold, new elementary school curriculum equipped to attack the roots of prejudice and discrimination was announced recently by the Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs, Tufts University.

The Intergroup Relations Curriculum is the result of a five-year, $200,000 research and development program carried out by the Center with support from the U. S. Office of Education and from several private foundations.

The curriculum, which can be grafted onto traditional social studies courses, is based on inductive teaching — the ability of sensitive and committed teachers to induce pupils to help arrive at understandings and conclusions of their own regarding prejudice and race.

For example, the teachers' manual in the curriculum package shows how students can develop and write personal portfolios, drawing on their own neighborhood experiences and on observations made watching television or reading newspapers.

Dr. John S. Gibson, author of the report and director of the Center, said, "Unless immediate attention is given to preparing teachers in American schools to confront the sensitive issues of racial prejudice in the classroom, little progress can be made through such programs as busing, decentralization, desegregation, and new school facilities in the ghettos."

"Even well integrated classrooms will not be able to fulfill their promises if the children are exposed to bigoted teachers, so-called integrated instructional material, and an inflexible curriculum," he said.

Teachers Participate
Dr. Gibson explained that more than 350 teachers and school administrators have participated in Center-sponsored institutes, and approximately 9,000 students have come in contact with the new curriculum.

School systems in Arlington, Cambridge, Lexington, Medford, Newton, Westwood and Winchester, and in 14 communities in Rhode Island, including Providence, have participated in the Center's in-service programs for teachers in the curriculum and have, in turn, taught segments of the curriculum in their elementary school classes.

The curriculum also has been tested in Boston's Castle Square Project, the New School, Boston, and a Title I summer program in Lowell.

In December 1968, the Center sponsored an institute for 35 teachers and administrators from nine northeastern states. Sixty-eight (68) percent felt that the seminar had changed their attitudes for the better regarding democratic intergroup relations.

"Before participating in our institutes," continued Dr. Gibson, "54 percent of the teachers claimed that their students were not aware or barely aware of racial, religious, ethnic differences. But afterwards, those same teachers almost unanimously recognized that their students did have definite views and often prejudices about others who are different."

Weather As Usual

During construction at its Harvard Square office, in Cambridge, Harvard Trust Company reassures pedestrians that despite a missing Weather Station normally seen in the window, weather will continue as usual. The Weather Station, a Harvard Square fixture for years, is in for a check-up while associated equipment which takes weather readings at roof-top level is being relocated to make room for the new floor being added to the present four-story structure. Puzzling out the message is Miss Toni Reichstein, customer contact/secretaries.

Lowest Employment Level

The year 1968 had the lowest level of unemployment recorded in Massachusetts in the past twelve years, according to a statement from Herman V. LaMark, Director of the Division of Employment Security.

Using as an index, the ratio of "insured unemployment" the average for 1968 was 2.8 per cent, as compared to 3.0 per cent for 1967 and 2.9 per cent for 1966. Insured unemployed are those members of the work force who are filing claims for unemployment insurance.

The average ratio of insured unemployment of 2.8 per cent for 1968 is the lowest since 1956 when it was 2.7 per cent. The highest ratio during this twelve-year period was in 1958 when it was 6.2 per cent.

Mr. LaMark explained that the index of insured unemployment is used by many economists because it is possible to obtain actual figures on a weekly basis from the number of claims being made for unemployment insurance.

Another index used is the estimated total unemployment rate, which in both 1968 and 1967, was also at the lowest rate since 1956.

The average number of insured unemployed during 1968 was 47,000. The majority of these were short term unemployed out of work for seasonal, or similar reasons. The majority of longer term unemployed were older workers who find it more difficult to obtain new work if they lose their jobs because of technological advances, plant closings, or moving. In November 1968, 59 per cent of the insured unemployed were 45 years of age or older. Of all of the insured unemployed who had been out of work 15 weeks or more, 73.6 per cent were workers in this upper age bracket.

While the average ratio of insured unemployment was 2.8 per cent for 1968, the monthly average ranged from a high of 4.2 per cent in January to a low of 2.1 per cent in September and October.

Director LaMark pointed out that while the average number of insured unemployed was about 47,000 during the year, another estimated 45,000 to 55,000 were unemployed but either not eligible for unemployment insurance or had exhausted their claims. Among both groups are members of minority groups and other disadvantaged workers. Much has been done by the Division of Employment Security during the last few years to increase the employability of the disadvantaged so that they may obtain and hold meaningful jobs.

Some of the underlying reasons why many of the disadvantaged have found it difficult to obtain and hold good jobs are deficiencies in education, language difficulties, lack of skills, or the need for training in good work habits. A number of the agency's programs and services are designed to overcome these problems and large numbers of disadvantaged who have been helped through these programs are now wage earners with good chances for advancement.

One program highlighted by Mr. LaMark was MDTA training. Since the start of the Manpower Development and Training Act in late 1962, more than 21,000 unemployed or underemployed have graduated from such courses in Massachusetts and more than 83 per cent found employment in the field of work for which they had received training or in allied fields. In addition to those who graduated from their courses there are another 2,600 still in training. Skilled training has been given in more than 100 different occupations. Through the training of these thousands of men and women, the employers of the Commonwealth have been able to cope, to a great degree, with the manpower shortages, which have gone hand in hand with the low level of unemployment.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

By JOHN A. WALKINSHAW

WITNESS! Let's think about the word, not necessarily in a religious sense, but from an earthly view of human reaction. All of us witness things every day. We see varying circumstances, situations and attitudes all around us, both good and bad.

As we witness these things in other people, wouldn't it be a good idea for us to ponder what other people see or witness in us? Each of us individually sets a standard of behavior, thought and expression linked to ourselves. In doing this, we naturally provide a scene or knowledge for others to witness. The things we do and the things we say cause people to talk about us favorably or gossip about us unfavorably.

We create our own image, good or bad. We control the destinies of our image in the minds and thoughts of others. When we can be rightfully proud of what others witness in us, we gain an inner gladness that automatically portrays a better, more likeable image. JOHN A. WALKINSHAW, SAVILLE, INC. To the Editor:

Contrary to what may have been said or imagined, by someone else, I do not intend to be a candidate for political office, other than Town Meeting Member, in the foreseeable future. I plan to be a candidate for re-election as a Precinct 12 TMM when my present term expires in 1970.

I do intend to encourage and assist, as a single member, the Arlington Town Meeting to function as the local legislative body in a manner befitting one of the most deserving communities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

I submit that the executive forces of government propose and the legislative branch disposes in the normal course of events. When the executive leadership falters or fails to indicate clearly and effectively the direction of their efforts, to the legislature and electorate, then it sometimes happens that their leadership prerogatives are infringed upon and on occasion, withdrawn.

The Arlington Town Meeting Association has been organized by an interested and concerned segment of the popularly elected Town Meeting membership, interested in the affairs of Arlington and concerned with the current projected course of events.

The TMA has received excellent cooperation to date, from the executive and administrative forces of local government and from local publicity media. The Town Meeting membership has responded to this effort to provide more opportunities for the dissemination of necessary information to the degree that 45 of a possible 240 eligible TMA members have paid their TMA dues as of Jan. 2, 1969. These minimal meeting members—nomination papers must be properly signed by at least 50 voters (1% of the entire vote cast for governor at preceding State Election—maximum number required 50). Registrars need not certify a greater number of names than are required to make a nomination, increased by two-fifths thereof—or 70. Ch. 53, Secs. 6 & 7, G.L. (No more than 4 blank nomination papers issued.)

Town Meeting Members properly signed by not less than 10 voters of the precinct, in which the candidate resides. On Rt. 2 Rink

The following news release relative to a review of conditions at the pedestrian approaches to the M.D.C. skating rink adjacent to the construction site on Rt. 2 in Belmont has been received by Senator Philibert Pellegri.

Hon. Philibert L. Pellegri
Senator, Sixth Middlesex District
State House
Boston, Massachusetts
Dear Senator:

In your letter of November 26th you requested a review of conditions at the pedestrian approaches to the M.D.C. skating rink adjacent to our construction site on Route 2 in Belmont.

Our District Office has reviewed the conditions and reported as follows:

"We have inspected the site and have cleaned up the area and constructed a temporary walkway with fence protection from Lake Street to the skating rink."

"We also have developed a plan for temporary street lighting in the vicinity of the rink which will require a small Extra Work Order under contract no. 12044."

This Extra Work Order will be processed immediately and work started on the lighting.
Very truly yours,
Edward J. Ribbs

Wins Honors —

The nation's schools nominated almost 8,500 students to the NCTE citation. Of that number, only 800 finalists were chosen. They represent over 600 schools from 50 states, the District of Columbia, and American Preparatory Schools abroad.

In announcing the winners, Robert F. Hogan, Executive Secretary of the National Council of English Teachers, stated that the Council recommends these students for college scholarships in 1969.

The names of these students are sent to every college and university admissions officer in the country. In previous years 99 percent of the award winners entered the college of their choice. Approximately 80 percent of those applying for scholarships received financial aid.

The NCTE sends to all winners scrolls of recognition and it honors their high school English department with certificates of merit. Judges and state chairmen were chosen from among outstanding teachers of English in high schools and colleges. Many of them were heads of high schools and college English departments or chairmen of college composition programs.

As basis for decision, judges received from each student a nomination blank giving biographical data; three compositions; an autobiographical sketch, an impromptu theme, and a prepared example of her best writing; results of standardized tests in composition and literary awareness; supporting statements from a teacher of English and a school administrator in each state. Teams of two judges considered these materials and voted on the best candidates.

The Sisters of Saint Joseph are the English instructors at the Arlington Catholic High school. Ellen's parents, are Mr. and Mrs. Reintjes of 177 Orchard st., Belmont.

Contemplation

When it comes to contemplation, New England's winter woodpeckers have few peers among birds.

The woodpeckers we have in mind are the hairy and downy. There are, of course, occasional black-backed woodpeckers—more common in northern New Hampshire or Maine—that wander into southern New England. And, an occasional flicker winters on Cape Cod or in more sheltered areas of Rhode Island or Connecticut. But the general woodpeckers of New England winter are the white-backed woodpeckers with black-and-white wings.

The hairy woodpecker is little more than a giant, economy-size version of the more common downy woodpecker. The ordinary hairy woodpecker gives the impression of being twice the size of a downy. There are intergrades, however, in which the smallest hairy woodpeckers are not much larger than the largest downy woodpeckers.

Even in these cases, the two species can be separated. The hairy woodpecker has a more typical woodpecker bill, the length of the bill appearing greater than the length of the head. The downy woodpecker has a stubby little bill, much shorter than the length of its head.

Both the hairy and downy woodpeckers have the habit of falling into a trance occasionally. In an attitude that reminds one of deep concentration. Either of these woodpeckers may be chiseling away at a chunk of suet and suddenly stop, point its bill like the remainder of its body, parallel to the chunk of suet—and drop into a trance.

Either a downy or hairy woodpecker may remain motionless in the "trance position" for periods up to twenty minutes. The spell usually is broken by some other bird, such as a chickadee or nuthatch alighting on the suet and apparently awakening the woodpecker.

Both female and male woodpeckers drift off into the trances. One gets the impression that males do it more often, but it would take considerably more bookkeeping to prove the point. Distinguishing an adult male from a female in either species is rather easy, since the male wears a splotch of red on the back of his head.

Guest Speaker

The appointment of Lt. Cdr. Ray E. Moses, 33, Pleasant View, Ky., as Commanding Officer of the hydrographic survey vessel "USCGC Davidson" has been announced by the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Moses will assume command of the 175-foot, 995-ton ship at her home port of Seattle, Wash., in mid-January. The vessel was commissioned in 1967. Although designed for hydrographic coastal surveying, she also has limited oceanographic facilities. She carries a normal complement of six officers and 30 crew.

Moses is a commissioned officer of the Environmental Science Services Administration in the U. S. Department of Commerce, parent body of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

He is now attached to the staff of the ESSA Plans and Requirements Division, Office of Plans and Programs, at Rockville.

The son of Mrs. Catherine Smith, of Williamsburg, Ky., Moses was born in Gatlin, Ky. He graduated from Pleasant View High School in 1951 and received a civil engineering degree from the University of Kentucky in 1956. Before joining the Coast Survey, he was an engineer with the Kentucky Department of Highways in Frankfort.

Moses and his wife, the former Mary Ann Barry, of Arlington, reside at 5104 Parklawn ter., Rockville, Md. The couple has two children, Karin, 2, and Stacy, 1. Mrs. Moses' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Barry, reside at 35 Aerial st., Arlington.

Global Perspective

Some of that global perspective that Astronauts Borman, Lovell, and Anders gained has touched all of us. We couldn't all go in that space ship, but in imagination we've all travelled with Apollo 8 this Christmas, facing the dangers, staring at the moon, and looking back at the tiny world, so fragile, beautiful, and precious.

In imagination we've all seen Earth from far, far away, and perhaps we've seen life on earth for what it really is—a wonderful miracle.

We've gotten a glimpse of how much we depend upon each other and upon the delicate balance of nature.

The universe is mostly sterile, dead, like the moon, but we truly do live upon a miracle. Our Earth gives us clean water, clean air, good food, the right temperatures to shelter us, and the chemical balance we need to breathe and grow.

And we human beings, little as we are, can see and reach for the moon, which for all its glory cannot see us.

Who could take our small planet Earth for granted after a real look from outer space?

Who could look at life selfishly, without considering the effect of his actions upon the rest of mankind?

Who could think of prejudice as a way of life or war as a genuine solution to problems?

Can Create New Life Who could be indifferent to pollution of water, air, and land?

Who could continue thinking it is O.K. to add his little bit to the mess, whether it is his little bit of litter (never mind that the country looks like a trash heap) . . . or his little bit of DDT (never mind that an overdose of persistent pesticides could endanger life on our globe) . . . or his little bit of raw sewage and chemical waste (never mind that all the rivers flowing to all the oceans may gradually become open sewers) . . . or his little bit of air pollution (never mind that the carbon dioxide may build up in the air until it changes global weather) . . . or his little bit of filling in his little marsh (never mind that the amount of seafood available to the world is less) . . . or his little bit of eroded soil (never mind that the amount of land-grown food becomes less) . . . or his five or six extra children (never mind that there aren't enough natural resources in all the world to feed all the people it is possible to produce).

Man, who can send astronauts to the moon, also has the power to destroy human life on earth.

Astronauts Borman, Lovell, and Anders had no assurance that they would return safely . . . and unfortunately we in our little Space Ship Earth also have no assurance of our safety. If we upset, say, the oxygen balance on earth by accidentally killing a large percentage of the ocean's oxygen-producing plankton with pesticides, we'd be in just as much trouble as Apollo 8 with a malfunctioning oxygen system.

But if everyone on earth can gain just a little of the astronauts' global perspective, we can create a new life of freedom, justice, and plenty for all.

New Policy

A new policy on dental care recently adopted by the Veterans Administration will extend treatment to Vietnam era veterans on a more liberal basis.

VA provides treatment for dental conditions that originated or were aggravated during military service if veterans apply during the first year after release from service.

Until recently, all ex-servicemen had to support their requests by military records.

Under VA's new policy, dental treatment may be provided without supporting military records if it is determined professionally—during the first eight months after release from service—that the condition is service-connected.

The veteran must make his application within the first six months after release from service and he must have served on active duty six months or more to qualify for the new benefit.

VA expects the new policy will extend dental care to veterans who developed conditions during military service that were not entered in their records.

Changes In Medicare Bills

Beginning in January, an older person who goes to the Hospital under Medicare will be responsible for the first $44.00 of his hospital bill (now running about $600.00 for the average hospital stay by a Medicare beneficiary). John E. Longnecker, Jr., manager of the Social Security District Office in Cambridge, said.

The $4.00 increase (from the present $40.00 deductible) results from a provision in the law requiring an annual review of the deductible amount. The first such review the law provided was to be made in 1968. The law specifies that if this annual review shows that hospital costs have changed significantly, the hospital deductible amount must be adjusted for the following year. Necessary increases in the deductible amount are to be made in $4.00 steps to avoid small annual changes.

Following the formula in the law, and figuring the ratio of inpatient hospital costs under Medicare in 1966 with those in 1967, the deductible amount for 1969 worked out to $45.36. Rounded to the nearest multiple of $4.00, this will make the deductible $44.00 for 1969. The results of the annual review of the inpatient hospital deductible also apply to the dollar amounts a Medicare beneficiary pays toward a hospital stay of more than 60 days, or a posthospital extended care stay of more than 20 days.

These amounts, therefore, will also increase by 10 percent, effective January 1, 1969—to $11.00 a day for the 61st through the 90th day of a hospital stay; to $5.50 for the 20th to the 100th day of a stay in a posthospital extended care facility; and to $22.00 a day for each day of the "Lifetime Reserve" of 60 days, the reserve account a beneficiary can draw upon if he ever needs more than 90 days of hospital care in the same benefit period.

The changes in these amounts apply only to the hospital insurance part of Medicare and do not affect the financing of the supplementary medical insurance (the voluntary program which covers doctor bills and a wide variety of other medical services).

For more information, get in touch with the Cambridge Social Security District office at 625 Mount Auburn st. (telephone 491-0700). The Cambridge office is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Wednesday evenings until 8 p.m.

This action follows an increase in the dividend rate which was paid last October 1st. This bank pays dividends quarterly.

For 109 years, it has been the practice of the Arlington Five to pay its depositors the highest dividends possible, consistent with prudent management, insured-in-full safety of every dollar, and availability of funds as desired.

Bill Veeck Speaker At Touchdown Club

Baseball's Bill Veeck, new president of Suffolk Downs race track and former owner of three major league teams, will be the featured speaker at the Arlington Touchdown Club Dinner tonight at 7 p.m. at Fantasia's Restaurant.

Will fans ever forget the day a midget came up to bat in an American League game? Bill Veeck may well go down in history merely for that moment in 1951 when he sent in Eddie Gaedel for the St. Louis Browns, in a surprise move that rocked the park.

But Veeck's team-winning record stands a good chance of being remembered, too.

When he took over the Cleveland Indians, they went on to win the American League pennant and the World Series in 1948, setting an all-time baseball attendance record of over two and a half million. That Cleveland team, by the way—and how can New England fans forget it—beat the Red Sox in a playoff game to win the pennant, then defeated the Boston Braves in the Series.

An injury received as a marine in World War II cost him a leg but dampened none of his enthusiasm and energy. He makes frequent appearances on national television network shows. His syndicated columns and book reviews appeared in newspapers throughout the country in such cities as Chicago, Denver, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore and Boston.

The Saturday Evening Post, Esquire, Sports Illustrated and Reader's Digest—a few of the magazines have carried his by-line.

After selling the Indians and the Browns, Veeck bought into the Chicago White Sox, another team that won the American League pennant for him in 1959. The Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Brewers are two other clubs with which he has been associated.

A promoter with a flair for entertaining the fans (he introduced the exploding scoreboard), Veeck in the last few years devoted much of his time to writing, radio and television.

The Park and Recreation Department's Winter Arts and Crafts program was highlighted a week ago with gala Christmas parties.

All seven schools involved conducted parties with various games, crafts, goodies and presents featured in different ways at each school.

Dallin

Bishop
The party at Bishop included refreshments and grab gifts made by the girls. Games played were Twister, Musical Chairs, and Balloon Relay. An angel making contest was held with winners being Mary Doherty and Mary Lavery. Members of the winning play team were Marita Harney, Amal Shahh, Susan Calendrella and Susan Nardone.

Cutter
All the girls made some cake, cookies or brought some candy in addition to dancing and singing Christmas carols. Games included Musical Chairs and Bombardment. Some of the girls who enjoyed the good time were Janet Fennell, Marion Perkins, Mary

Judge, Lisa Ramirez, Nancy Shea, Marial Babin, Susan Garrity and Debbie Sliney.

Stratton
This school formed committees to take care of the many different activities which took place at the party. Susan Perrell headed the decoration committee who did an excellent job at decorating the room while the food committee provided the refreshments. The highlight of the day was the entertainment which was provided by Joan Wilson, Anne Gray and Pat Teevan who did a "take-off" on the Laugh In. Other girls who worked hard in preparation were Janice DeRosa, Dianne Albanese, Donna Saleme, Cathy Bonnon, Michelle Boudreau, Loretta Tramentazzi and Melinda Johnston.

Thompson
At this school the girls enjoyed making various Christmas gifts and decorations along with games of kickball, dodgeball and keep away. In addition, some of the girls brought refreshments and the party was a huge success. Some of the girls in attendance were Eileen Quinn, Patricia Brennan, Jean Harrington, Gail Hudson and Sandra Corbett.

Locke
Gifts, refreshments, races and drama highlighted the program at this area. Each of the girls performed a skit in some manner much to the delight of the group. Mary Pompey, Ruth Abbott, Linda Smith, Martha Hughes and Meg Taylor were some of the girls who acted out parts and enjoyed the morning's activities.

Ski Season Underway

Nashoba Valley Ski area opened its 1969 season recently with an eye toward its most successful season. "Unless the weather refuses to cooperate, we should have our best year yet," said Alan Fletcher, owner of the popular suburban ski area which is located in Westford, between Rtes. 2A and 110 on Power rd.

"The ski industry is booming," says Fletcher. "The National Ski Association is predicting an average national increase of 15 per cent and we're more than ready to handle that kind of a growth rate. Since last year we've added a challenging half-mile trail, expanded our base lodge facilities, and put together one of the best ski schools in Massachusetts."

Fletcher cites expansion and instruction as keys to the ski area's future. "Unlike so many of the other Eastern Massachusetts' ski areas," says the owner, "we're fortunate to have plenty of room for expansion. So far we have used less than a third of our available land area and are currently conducting architectural studies so that we can best utilize our land." Nashoba Valley currently has six slopes and one trail which include three novice, two intermediate and one expert. Seven tons keep waiting time to a minimum.

A gala party with crafts, goodies and games was enjoyed by the girls at this school. Some of the girls in attendance were Donna Lecece, Susie and Dianne Ponte, Roberta Popleo, Sandy Flynn and Joyce Ruthowski.

"Another area we're working on," says Fletcher, "is our instructional capability. Do you realize that three out of every five skiers have taken up the sport within the last six years? People have more time to ski now than ever before, and want to learn! Our convenient location puts us within an easy 20-30 minute drive from major Boston suburban communities making it practical for family groups—housewives, juniors—to obtain instruction. We've also noticed a growing interest in lessons on the part of business people."

Toward this end, Nashoba Valley staffs a ski school of 26 experienced instructors who teach the American Technique. The school, headed by Frank Willard and Pam Kaczka is a certified member school of the Professional Ski Instructors of America. All phases of skiing are taught, from beginner to expert, and private lessons and package plans are offered in addition to the regular group lessons. Special morning housewife and evening executive lessons are conducted Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

NOTE

Was It a Coincidence?

We wondered if you had thought about it. Willard S. Robinson, Commander of the World War I Veterans of the U.S.A. compiled the following:

"Two of the World's most famous journeys Both made by three men. The first by three wise men. They followed a star. Under its Guidance (riding camels) They reached their destination and found the new born son of God in a Manger. 1968 years later The Second Journey by three astronauts They followed the moon. The three blasted off in their Apollo 8 capsule, reaching the moon Dec. 25th (was this just a coincidence or did God plan it this way). After circling the moon ten times Under the direction of their Commander Frank Borman they started their long trek back to earth and completed their descent safely by splashing down in the Pacific, Friday, Dec. 27, 1968."

Attend College

Fourteen young men currently are attending college with the assistance of scholarships provided by the Memorial Foundation of Allied Van Lines, Inc., according to R. K. Mooney, President of Arlington Storage, Inc., a local Allied agent.

Mooney said Allied's scholarship program began in 1963, and originally was dedicated to the memory of Martin H. Kennelly, of Chicago, and Louis C. Schramm, Jr., of New York, two of the worldwide corporation's pioneers. Now a memorial to all deceased Allied directors, agents, relatives and friends, the program provides financial aid to deserving students at three universities—John Hopkins, Notre Dame, and Stanford.

A total of 25 students have either been graduated from, or are now attending the three universities, according to Mooney.

Mooney said James Elseser, 21, of Canton, Ohio, an Allied scholarship student at Notre Dame, and Brother Kieran Ryan, C.S.C., director of financial aid and scholarships, at the school, made an appearance at Allied's 40th annual meeting held recently in Chicago.

At the meeting, Elseser was quoted as saying, "I have profited most directly from my electrical engineering curriculum because I need this technical background for my future career. But a school like Notre Dame sees a man as truly educated only if he is educated as a whole man. Because of this, my work has involved many courses such as history, literature, art, and so forth. Thus, I have valued the broader aspects of my education, which have equipped me for a broader role as an educated man."

Brother Ryan told the Allied convention, "We consider that Allied Van Lines Scholarship Program one of our outstanding awards. We are especially pleased with the discretion we are allowed in the selection of the recipients of this scholarship, and we feel that the selections made during the past five years have justified the confidence you have placed in us."

Highlight of Jazz Festival

Taken separately, a Dave Brubeck or a Gerry Mulligan is enough to tune in any jazz buff. But when these two giants of jazz go on stage together, in the same tightly-knit group, it's bound to be the high note of any musical season, as it will be at the fourth annual Boston Globe Jazz Festival, at Boston's War Memorial Auditorium Jan. 31 and Feb. 1.

Produced by Newport-famous George Wein and sponsored by the Globe, this mid-winter mixed bag marks the first local appearance of the newly-formed Brubeck-Mulligan aggregation. Brubeck pioneered taking jazz onto the college campus 17 years ago, and by now has travelled more widely around the world than any other modern jazz musician.

The original Dave Brubeck Quartet sold millions of records and won scores of awards throughout the 1950's and 1960's.

Brubeck dissolved that group in 1967 and last summer formed his new quartet, choosing an equally renowned companion in Gerry Mulligan.

Mulligan remains the number, one spokesman of the West Coast's "cool" school of jazz. Throughout the 1950's he led groups with trumpeter Chet Baker and valve trombonist Bob Brookmeyer, also toured with Stan Kenton and Woody Herman. Year after year he captures first place in the baritone sax category in all jazz polls. Boston drummer Alan Dawson and bassist Jack Six fill out the quartet.

Appearing in addition to Brubeck and Mulligan on the 8 p.m. Friday program will be multi-reed man Roland Kirk, the Mothers of Invention, George Wein's Newport All-Stars featuring Red Norvo, Barney Kessel and Ruby Braff. Saturday evening's 8 o'clock concert features trumpeter Hugh Masekela, vocalist Nina Simone, blues guitarist B. B. King and Sun Ra and his 15-piece "Solar Orchestra". Mulligan will also be featured at the popular "Jazz for Youth" matinee at 2 p.m. on Saturday, along with the Newport All-Stars and Gene DiStasio's Brass '68.

As in previous years, the proceeds will be donated by the Boston Globe to set up scholarships for deserving students.

Tickets may be purchased at the Globe's Boston offices: 181 Prudential Plaza and 285 Washington st., also at Hub, Tyson and Out-of-Town-Ticket agencies.

Mail orders are being filled by sending a check or money order to Boston Globe Jazz Festival, P. O. Box 460, Boston, Mass. 02102.

Need Support

The research progress being made in overcoming birth defects warrants greater support than ever for the January fund-raising campaign of the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the March of Dimes.

While the toll of 250,000 children afflicted annually with birth defects in this country remains far too high—the picture is changing. Within the last year, science has made important forward steps that promise to eliminate birth defects from two causes.

There is now a vaccine that can prevent Rh blood disease and a vaccine against German measles (rubella) that is in the final stages of testing.

Much more research is needed, however, to counteract the damage caused by hundreds of other kinds of birth defects. March of Dimes research into the causes of these abnormalities is going on in laboratories across the country.

This month, the March of Dimes is asking for contributions to help support its nationwide network of more than 100 Birth Defects Centers—two of which are right here in Boston. Let us show a generous response to this vast humanitarian undertaking.

Accepted

Paul A. Needham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin P. Needham, 93 Sunset rd., has received an early acceptance to the Fall term at Bryant Stratton. Paul will major in Marketing.
